Tribune Man Will Cover Finish of Race

THE finish of the New York-Toronto air race will be reported for The Tribune by Jack Binns, staff aviation reporter, who will leave Roosevelt Field at 8 o'clock this morning with O. S. Parmer, one of the contestants.

Parmer arrived at the field from Toronto at 2:15 yesterday afternoon. At 4:18, with Binns as passenger, he started back, but developed engine trouble when he had climbed only 1,000 feet. The machine landed at Hazlehurst Field and was not ready for the air again at 4:30, the latest hour at which, by the rules of the contest, an aviator may start.

Through an eleventh hour readjustment Binns did not fly with Roland

"We ran into three thunderstorms on the way down, but that was the only other troubles we had."

Both Plumb nad Kratz spoke in an awed and respectful tone of the staying qualities of the Liberty motor. Theirs had been running 134 hours without readjustment before they started on the adjustment before they started on the

Twenty-One Start Back

Twenty-four other machines landed during the day. Twenty-one of them made hasty repairs and headed back for Toronto. The other three were the machines of Lieutenant Plumb and Maynard, which completed their flights, and the Fokker machine of Capitain H. W.
